Are you caring for a young person or adult with additional needs aged 14-25 years?

Transition Project

Young People, Parents and Carers

The Transition Project is for parents and carers of young people and adults aged 14-25 with learning, physical or other additional needs who will be moving from children's to adult services, or are experiencing change within educational or adult social care provision within the borough of Enfield.

Outcomes For Young People, Parents and Carers:

- To access the right support
- To be empowered to make informed decisions
- To have their voice heard
- To feel supported

Issues affecting 14-25 year old's may include:

- Transition reviews and meetings with educationalists at school, or meetings with social workers and healthcare professionals.
- Education, health and care plans and special educational needs (SEN).
- Assessment and support planning by social services.
- Personal budgets and direct payments for support services.
- Moving to new accommodation — supported or independent living, or other types of residential setting.
- Leaving school, starting college, day services, employment, supported internships/apprenticeships or training.
- Weekday, weekend or holiday support and activities.

We can offer help by:

Meeting with you at home or elsewhere, and by listening to your concerns.

Providing free and independent information and advice, as well as advocacy services that may include:

- Attending meetings with professionals or negotiating educational placements and/ or care packages.
- Preparing letters or emails on your behalf or by assisting you with writing your own.
- Discussing options that may be available, including challenging decisions and making formal complaints.
- Enabling young people and their carers, to make informed choices.
